Labor & Employment

Accelerated healthcare reform has transformed the landscape of practice for all healthcare providers and professionals. Nelson Hardiman has first-hand experience in adroitly handling labor and employment disputes that arise in this challenging new environment.

Our litigators defend against claims from all phases of the employment cycle, including peer review, wrongful termination, administrative proceedings, agency investigations and enforcement, licensing and other areas of regulation. From physician contract disputes to professional claims and medical staff issues, we combine business acumen with litigation strengths to provide our healthcare and life sciences clients with labor and employment representation they can count on.