Data Privacy & Security

Attune to the key issues and emerging trends impacting the healthcare industry, Nelson Hardiman's healthcare lawyers are adept at managing the data privacy and security concerns that drive the way information is created, stored, and utilized. Hospitals, health systems, healthcare companies and individuals rely on us to navigate regulatory compliance standards and advise on best practices to mitigate risk in an industry impacted by security breaches and emerging healthcare technologies.

Nelson Hardiman combines strategic vision with practical advice to advise on the data privacy and security issues around the collection, analysis, use and disclosure of patient information and related data that is driving success in the healthcare industry.
