Governance

The seismic changes impacting the healthcare industry place increasing burdens of care on the governing boards of hospitals and health systems. Nelson Hardiman partner Rob Fuller harnesses his deep experience in corporate governance as a former hospital COO to lead our transactional team and advise on challenges in a transformed healthcare environment. When healthcare organizations need the guidance and advocacy that comes with deep integrity and experience, they turn to Nelson Hardiman.

We understand the unique business structures of the healthcare sector and the legal requirements of corporate governance. Nelson Hardiman leverages our national reputation for business expertise to ensure that boards, directors, trustees and management teams meet the fiduciary obligations and governance challenges of the evolving healthcare industry.
