Diligence

The largest law firms in America regularly turn to Nelson Hardiman to perform due diligence on the healthcare and life science transactions they are handling. Our experience in licensing, operational, and reimbursement risks on both federal and state issues in a wide array of healthcare verticals makes us an optimal choice for the diligence process. Nelson Hardiman attorneys have advised on a wide range of transactions with respect to the essential due diligence, and have been called on to resolve challenges, including conflicts and disagreements, emerging in the diligence process in many transactions.
