

Regulatory Compliance 101

You review your office's employment practices with your human resources consultant. You comply with overtime rules, breaks, sign postings and the many other employment compliance issues that all California employers need to worry about. Is there anything else physicians need to be doing with respect to office personnel?